TWENTY-NINTH ANNUAL REPORT

OF THE ### BOARD OF DIRECTORS.

FROM the first meeting of the present Board, there has been under discussion the petition of Col. R. Dale Benson and others to incur a bonded indebtedness of $100,000 for the purpose of general improvements. Upon motion, December, 1890, the petition was referred to a special committee, with Silas W. Pettit, Esq., as chairman, who, acting in conjunction with the House Committee, were authorized to consider the entire question and report their determination later to the Board of Directors. Authority was also granted them to employ architects for the purpose of preparing plans, submitting estimates and thoroughly examining the building preparatory to making said improvements.

Under this power Mr. William B. Powell and Mr. R. G. Kennedy, architects, were engaged, and submitted reports, the former taking the character of a detailed criticism of the entire Union League structure.

February 17, this special committee was authorized to select, as additional experts to examine the building, Mr. John Ord, architect, Mr. George Watson and Mr. Stacy Reeves, builders.

Mr. Pettit, chairman, in a communication dated May 12 submitted a full printed report from the three experts, together with the verbal opinion of Mr. Lewis Havens, builder, in which the conclusion arrived at unanimously regarding the strength of the present walls was that while, by strengthening one of the piers, two stories might be safely built over the Benson annex, there was not an excess of strength over present requirements to insure the entire safety of two additional stories on any other portion of the Club House; and in regard to the floors of the main building, that there is such a deficiency of strength, due to the size of the timber and not decay, that they are deemed "not entirely safe." But this is not to be interpreted as meaning that any danger is to be feared from the ordinary everyday use of the floors.

The special committee, through its chairman, suggested the adoption of the following, which was carried:

"Resolved, That it is deemed inexpedient to make any permanent additions to the League House at this time, and that the committee be discharged from further consideration of the subject."

The labor of this joint committee has been of a most arduous character, and the faithful performance of their perplexing duties deserves the gratitude of their fellow members.

The House Committee, May 11, suggested to the Board that in view of the report of the experts upon the condition of the walls and floors of the building, they be authorized to employ an architect to ascertain what alterations are necessary to render the building safe under extraordinary load, and what cost it would entail if such alterations were made, and to strengthen such floors found to be defective. The views of the Board were also asked respecting other improvements. Being instructed the House Committee employed Messrs. Tout & McLaughlin, builders, and under the guidance of a competent architect (Mr. Thomas B. Lonsdale) strengthened the floors of the Reading, Banquet and Dining-rooms, also the main stairs and second-floor hall, and placed the League building in a satisfactory condition without destroying the ceilings of the various rooms under the floors formerly reported unsafe.

On June 9 the question of general improvements, alterations and decorations was referred back to the House Committee, to get further designs and report at a future meeting.

In a communication dated October 13 the House Committee reported that in order to purchase land, to erect a building and furnish the same completely, it would be necessary to ask for a very much larger amount than $100,000, named in the original petition of Col. R. Dale Benson and others.

It was then resolved, at the October meeting of the Board, that the House Committee take into consideration the question of altering the present servant rooms into chambers for members, and to report at the December meeting of the Board.

December 8, the Board unanimously ordered that the servants be placed in other quarters, and that the rooms now occupied by them, in the third story, be put in condition for lodgings for the use of members.

On motion of the House Committee, April 14, it was resolved that the thanks of the Board be tendered Mr. George Herzog, one of our members, who without cost to the League, and much expense and care to himself, had painted the exquisite panels on the frieze of the Flemish Renaissance room.

February 10, the Board received the legacy from the estate of George S. Pepper, which, less the collateral inheritance tax, amounted to $4762.50. With grateful acknowledgment of the spirit that prompted this gift, the same was accepted and placed with the Treasurer, to be known as the Pepper Library Fund, and to be used by the Library Committee according to the terms of the will.

The Library Committee reports that it has continued to provide the current newspapers, magazines and periodicals during the past year, and the list of them attached to its report shows that they have been well selected and that nothing further can be desired in this particular. The committee has expended $2488.91.

Pursuant to a wish of the League for a partial change in your Board of Directors, four members have declined renomination—Vice-presidents Col. T. E. Wiedersheim and Joseph B. Townsend, Esq., Directors Mr. Winthrop Smith and Mr. William B. Warne. Mr. Townsend was one of the original directors, and retires carrying with him the wish of the League that his useful and honored life may be lengthened for many years. Col. Wiedersheim, Mr. Smith and Mr. Warne have for a long period, as members of the House Committee, in the line of their arduous duty devoted their valuable time, energy and ability, contributing largely to the efforts which have brought the Union League to its present prosperous and influential condition. The Board voice the unanimous feelings of the membership in expressing regret that they have thought it necessary to decline a renomination and retire from positions they have so eminently adorned.

In the loss of that great American soldier General William T. Sherman, who died February 14, 1891, we are reminded that it is the proud prerogative of a noble nature like his to retain a still greater influence after death. The memory of his unselfish service in leading our army on its march to the great open sea of victory and peace becomes a star to lighten the way for others to more unselfishly devote their talents, and if necessary their lives, to the service of their country.

In 1866 the Union League presented a very valuable gold medal to General George G. Meade for his splendid and patriotic services as a citizen and soldier during the war of the rebellion. This medal was highly prized by General Meade, and after his death was safely cared for by his widow. Upon her death it was bequeathed to their son Colonel Meade, who until November last had it in the custody of a trust company. Thinking it a pity to have it hidden away and thus lose its significance and influence, Col. Meade tendered it to the League for safe keeping, without pecuniary responsibility. The Board accepted its custodianship, and with gratitude to the donor requested the House Committee to have it safely placed in a prominent position in the League House.

During the year the League House has been the scene of varied entertainments. April 30, a subscription dinner by the members of the Union League was given to the Hon. Edwin H. Fidler upon his retirement from the office of Mayor of the city of Philadelphia, and in recognition of his pure and able administration of that high office. The entertainment was of a most splendid character.

May 4, a reception was extended to the Hon. Edwin S. Stuart, Mayor of Philadelphia, and upon this occasion the League took the opportunity of assuring Mr. Stuart of the distinguished honor that had been conferred upon this association in again selecting from its membership the chief magistrate of this great city.

We were specially honored on Decoration Day in entertaining the President of the United States, the Secretary of War, Secretary of the Navy and the Postmaster General. Invitations were extended not only to the membership of the League, but also to George G. Meade Post, No. 1, G. A. R. The brilliant reception upon that occasion was in every way worthy of the distinguished guests and the Union League.

The Music Committee successfully inaugurated a Wednesday evening concert during the summer months, and beside the Saturday evening concerts gave four promenade concerts for members and their families, and have made provision for two additional during the present season.

The Art Association has presented to the Union League an Astronomical Clock, which has been pronounced by competent critics to be the most wonderful of its kind in the United States. This has been placed in the main hall.

The restaurant continues to improve under the able management of your House Committee and the intelligent supervision of Captain A. L. Williams, Superintendent, and is conceded by all who use it (particularly by guests from other clubs) to be all that could be desired. This department shows a loss of only $1721.24, notwithstanding the increased cost of running it, which (consequent upon improved service, reduced charges, and a rigid enforcement of the rule against feeing, necessitating the employment of new servants at advanced wages) is, as compared with the former system, nearly $6000 per year.

To the 1386 members standing on our rolls on the 1st day of December last there have been added by election 60, making a total of 1446; of which number we have, however, unhappily lost by death 33, by resignation 20, and 3 have been suspended under our By-laws, so that the number of active members now on the rolls of the League, including 10 elected and not yet qualified, is 1400; in addition to whom we have 23 associates on the army, navy and consular roll. There are 308 applicants for active membership, many of whom have been waiting for several years.

The thanks of the Board and of the League are due to the Committee on Membership for the promptness, impartiality and ability with which they have discharged their arduous duties.

It will be noticed by the Treasurer's report that the receipts from entrance fee and annual tax were $77,870; from other sources (including Pepper legacy of $4762.50), $98,868.84. Total, $176,738.84.

The only indebtedness now existing against the League is a floating debt of $8000 (which is $7000 less than last year) and the bond and mortgage of $10,000, which there is every reason to believe can be liquidated within the coming year.

The Treasurer's and Auditors' reports are submitted herewith.

To meet the requirements of the League for the ensuing year, the annual tax has been fixed at $50.

The Secretary was authorized to print with this report a list of deceased members since organization.

The members of the League, with the Republicans of Philadelphia, have cause for congratulation in the election of our fellow member Mr. George D. McCreary to the responsible position of City Treasurer.

Owing to the revelations connected with the administration of the former Treasurer, the Republican party had to face at the outset of the fall campaign a condition of affairs full of anxiety and uncertainty. Although a Republican Mayor and District Attorney, together with an investigating committee appointed by Councils, unearthed the frauds and aided in bringing to justice the offender, the party in power had to withstand the consequence of these revelations upon the unthinking voter, who was assisted in his perplexity by the somewhat inconsistent campaign of the "Independent" organization of this city.

Progressive Republicanism therefore demanded the nomination of upright and able men, and the selection of Mr. McCreary and General Gregg to lead the county and state tickets resulted in a splendid victory for reform within the party organization. Let this good work continue, and we will achieve not only glorious results for the principles of good government, but speedily obtain for this great commonwealth the respect and honor due it from the Republican organization of the country.

It is rather an anomalous condition of affairs, but the results of the general election seem to have satisfied both parties. There has been disappointment that we did not elect governors in the Republican states of Massachusetts and Iowa, and that we did not reduce the Democratic majority in the state of New York. In Massachusetts the victory of Governor Russell, owing to his personal popularity, is satisfactorily neutralized by the election of the balance of the state ticket and the return of a legislature Republican in both houses. In Iowa the success of the entire Democratic ticket is a local victory, and is due to a controversy on the temperance question, the Republicans of that state having made prohibition a party principle, and shown the utter uselessness of trying to regulate people's appetites by legislation. No thinking man, however, need doubt for a moment but that in the next national election Massachusetts and Iowa will be as soundly Republican as ever.

New York is a Democratic state, save in the national elections, at which time, with the tariff under discussion, it is fair to class it as doubtful. If so able a man as Senator Sherman is to be believed, there is no cause for Republican uneasiness at the result in that state. National politics were not discussed by the Republicans in that campaign; and the farmer, being tired of factional control, remained at home on election day, warning the Republican organization that more than one man should be consulted in party management. With live national issues discussed, and the party directed by leaders, New York will still be fighting-ground for the Republican party in the approaching presidential election.

If the English and continental press—in fact, every one who has commented on the result of the American elections (save the Democratic party)—is to be believed, the great victory in Ohio, whereby the state has elected for her next governor Major McKinley, and a legislature so overwhelmingly Republican as to assure the return to the United States Senate of John Sherman, is a distinct triumph for protection, the McKinley bill and an honest financial policy.

The battle in Ohio attracted the attention of the governing powers of the world. Foreign interests were at stake. Exporters there, importers here, watched the result with selfish but pardonable interest. The answer was a triumph for the American policy of protection. “A tariff for revenue only” is still, as far as America is concerned, a spectre; and to use the exact words of the English prime minister, Lord Salisbury, “England is still left alone to fight the battle of free trade.”

No more fallacious argument has ever been used in favor of free trade than the delusive cry that we must sell the markets of the world. The purchasing power of sixty-five millions of Americans, owing to their material prosperity, is greater than that of a hundred and thirty millions of other lands; and in order to obtain these markets of the world, in the countries beyond the seas—whose wants, we must remember, are already more than supplied by English and continental producers—we are asked to reduce the tariff, enable the foreign manufacturer to come into the rich field of America, not only causing us to lower our wages and thus cut down the consuming power, but also, on the other hand, to add the competition of the foreign to the home producer.

As labor is the largest percentage of cost in almost every manufactured article, we can, under a tariff for revenue, meet European competition only by cheapening the price of labor. Under the Republican principle of a tariff for protection first and revenue afterward, we can, with the rivalry produced by home competition and American ingenuity, so decrease the price as to prevent monopoly and obtain in time a portion of the foreign without relinquishing the home market. In fact, the road to continued prosperity is in the principle of the American factory side by side with the American farm, the one creating the customer for the other.

The failure of the Farmers' Alliance issue as a political factor is already assured, and the indications all point that the lines of the next national contest will be more sharply drawn than ever before as between protection and free trade.

The selection of Mr. Crisp for Speaker of the House of Representatives, the additional fact that every prominent candidate was not only from the South but a believer in the old Calhoun theory of a southern British school of political economy, which, it should not be forgotten, was incorporated under its proper name, free trade, in the constitution of the Southern Confederacy, is a clear indication that for the first time in the history of the country the leaders of the Democratic party will place themselves upon a national platform pronouncing unqualifiedly against any tariff which has for its object protection to American interests. It is not necessary to say that the Republican party with eagerness accepts the challenge, and with calmness awaits the issue of the battle.

The Democratic party has never advanced a broad or sound national principle. It has, on the contrary, entrenched itself behind the shortcomings of the party in power, and existed only as a protest against Republicanism. We cannot too strongly impress upon the members of the League the importance of being strong and aggressive in our political faith. We feel that Republicanism was never so strong, never so progressive, as now. The result of the late elections has shown that as a party of the people it has the principles and courage to cleanse itself. With the glorious traditions that have been our inheritance, with vital principles making us not only a party of history but of ideas, we can with self-reliance believe that the people of this favored land will by the verdict of the ballot decide that power must again be entrusted to the Republican party, the record of whose achievements is the history of the United States since 1860, and who, chastened by reverses, but battling as of old for living principles of protection to American industry, reciprocity, sound finances—in fact a broad national policy suitable to the growth of our marvelous country—is now more than ever worthy to guide with the chart of experience the ship of state, commanded by a Republican President, to ports of larger reforms and grander accomplishments.

By order of the Board of Directors.

WILLIAM POTTER,

Secretary.
